

"Remembrance and Renewal: Navajo Resilience through Weaving Traditions"

The Institute for Research on Trauma and Resilience (IRTR) will be hosting an event titled "Remembrance and Renewal: Navajo Resilience through Weaving Traditions" on April 3rd, 2019, in conjunction with California State University, Channel Islands, as part of the university's "Native Voices" exhibit.

The event will feature elders of the Diné Nation sharing their wisdom, songs and traditions. Speakers in the event's lecture series include Dr. Christine Gailey, Dr. Ivana Mora and Dr. Lee Greer.

Interactive workshops, including a weaving workshop, will be held and traditional Diné rugs will be for sale with 100% of the proceeds going to the Navajo Weavers.

The event is FREE and open to the public. We begin at 10 AM in the Broome Library.

Broome Library
1 University Drive
Camarillo, CA 93012

For more information, CONTACT:
Mike Amorelli
mamor002@ucr.edu

blackmesaweavers.org

irtresilience.org

For more information visit the library website
<https://library.csuci.edu/about/news/native-voices-exhibit.htm>

Center for COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT
CHANNEL ISLANDS

SRE

SECRETARÍA DE RELACIONES
EXTERIORES

California State University

JOHN SPOOR BROOME LIBRARY
CHANNEL
ISLANDS

ALA American Library Association

NIH U.S. National Library of Medicine

